The adventurous Logan Dodds has a bad case of Wanderlust.

When Logan took off in 2015 to go on his big OE, a kiwi rite of passage, he didn't realise it would be a career defining moment.

Equipped with a new GoPro, Logan thought it would be fun to capture a collection of moments, transitioning them with his signature camera high five.

His video went viral, quickly collecting more than 5 million views, and the story of the 'hot tradie who broke the internet' became an instant sensation.

For some, the dream would end there. But Logan is a lot more than a one-hit-wonder.

Not one to rest on his laurels, Logan spent the next few years honing his craft. Genuinely talented as a photographer and videographer, he's travelled to some of the remotest places on Earth, capturing some truly breath-taking moments.

With a style of content defined by its own unique flavour, Logan combines drones, DSLRs and GoPros to takes his audience on a journey to jaw-dropping vistas and stunning locations.

Posting his highlights online, Logan has connected with a super engaged and growing community online. Now he boasts more than 60,000 fans who love keeping up with his every move.

Logan is an adrenaline junkie who lives every day to its fullest. Although a plumber by trade, his media career has superseded his trade work (although you can occasionally still catch him on the tools funding his next big adventure). As inspiring as he is hard working, Logan is also a bit of a health and fitness nut, and you can see his passion for exercise shine through on his feed.

In high demand as a brand ambassador, Logan prides himself on the genuine brand relationships he forms – ensuring each collaboration is an authentic fit. Logan is passionate about creating great content, collaborating with like-minded companies, and working on exciting and innovative projects.

Over the years he's explored California with The Edge and Contiki, launched a 'Kiwi OE' campaign with Air New Zealand, and literally taken on the world (Fiji, Hawaii, Norway - and just about every square inch of New Zealand, to name but a few!). He's regularly featured in local entertainment media, and always finds himself on the hottest event guest lists around town.
