Strong and savvy, the exceptionally talented Megan Papas is a renowned radio broadcaster, influencer and stylist.

Bubbly Megan has one of the most coveted jobs in radio – co-hosting the popular ZM Breakfast show, Fletch, Vaughan & Megan. Her vibrant and animated personality, coupled with her quick wit and great banter, make her more than qualified to hold her own against the boys.

While naturally easy-going and candid, she's also incredibly astute. Unafraid to speak her mind, Megan uses her influence to shine a light on the toughest of topics.

Megan has inadvertently grown a sizeable social following, pushing 50,000 fans. A fashionista, dog-mum and wife filled with wanderlust, her pages paint a life worth envying. In her collection of tiny squares, Megan can be spotted jet-setting around the world with her musician beau, eating delicious food, and attending the hottest concerts and events.

An old hand in the media industry, Megan's scores of experience across radio, television, print and social puts her in a very strong position as a content creator. She knows what quality looks like (and how to produce it); her overarching position allowing her to see trends before they emerge.

Megan's Instagram has created a space for her to share her favourite beauty products, must-haves, and her take on the latest fashion and style trends. Megan's images have a fun, high fashion feel, and she continues to receive strong results from her audience.

For most, that would be enough strings to their bow. But the seriously multi-talented Megan is not one to rest on her laurels. As well as her high-profile role as on-air talent, Megan is a voice artist, has spent four years in technical production, and continues to record and produce award-winning commercials. She also worked as a fashion stylist for the band Titanium, in conjunction with creating content as a fashion blogger for NZ Girl.
