

Tim Sisarich

Tim knows how to bring words to life, in a way that moves people to action.

From scripted documentary and national news, to hard-sell retail, audio books and training videos, Tim has been a trusted voice, helping others tell great stories for more than 25 years.

A finalist for both the New Zealand TV & Radio Awards, Tim's warm, engaging and friendly voice has been used by radio, TV, corporates and not-for-profits all over the world.

Tim fills the rest of his time working as a communications and media specialist.

He works in partnership with community-focused businesses, cause-driven international NGOs and humanitarian organisations in the development of their brand and vision. Tim specialises in building content and communications strategies and enabling his clients to navigate the complex communications needs, challenges and requirements of unstable humanitarian environments.
